A New Kind of Death

Encouraged by the success of their first effort when they rendered the "Pageant, In as Much" a few months ago, the young people of St. John's Reformed church have been preparing to render a double "Pageant or rather two Pageants in one evening. The titles of these are "Darkness and Light" and "Christ in America."

Both are very beautiful and will afford a splendid opportunity for the fine talent manifested on the part of the young people of St. John's. The costumes, which have been hired for the occasion will add much to the effectiveness of the presentation. The young people invite their friends to this service which will be held on next Sunday evening June 8th and will not begin until 8:30 o'clock because of the fact that the beauty of the "Pageant" "Darkness and Light" can be brought out only after darkness has come.

Examinations For Bedford County Teachers

The following schedule of examinations for teachers' certificates in Bedford county for the year 1919 has been arranged:—
Osterburg, June 26 and 27.
Schellsburg, July 7 and 8.
New Enterprise, June 30, and July 1.
Clearville, July 10 and 11.
Everett, August 11 and 12.
Bedford, August 13 and 14.

Requirements for Professional certificates.

The applicant must pass a thorough examination in the branches as required by the Code, agriculture and the two approved books on pedagogy; namely, "School Efficiency" by Henry E. Bennett and "Our Public Schools—Their teachers, Pupils and Patrons" by Dr. Oscar T. Cowson.

Applicants will be required to demonstrate to the examiner that they have a knowledge of and can teach some approved system of penmanship.

The examination in reading will consist of oral reading and questions on "Julius Caesar" by Shakespeare.

Requirements for Provisional Certificates

Applicants who hold "one" in any branch except Algebra will be permitted to hold said mark this year. However, the applicant should substitute work leading to the professional certificate.

The examination in Methods will be based mainly, though not exclusively, upon "Our Public Schools—Their teachers, Pupils and Patrons" by Corson.

The requirements in reading, agriculture, and penmanship will be the same as for the professional certificate.

General Rules Applying to All Applicants

Examinations will begin at 8:30 o'clock A. M.

Applicants will be present at that time.

Uniform examination paper will be furnished by the Superintendent.

All work will be done with pen and ink.

After Death Then What?

PHYSICAL RESEARCH PROVES THAT SPIRIT DOES NOT PERISH WITH BODY

Man accepts novel and wonderful and heretofore incredible discoveries in biology, in chemistry and in science, but he seems to assume that these are the only departments of the universe in which such discoveries are possible. Yet, in recent years, discoveries of the first magnitude have been made by strictly scientific methods in the region of psychology and these discoveries are quite comparable in importance with those made in physics and biology. It may correctly be said they are of more the consideration of man's future existence.

Learned and responsible students both in the domain of science and of letters have had their interest aroused in strange and weird occurrences similar to those which have been vouched for among nations and in every age. I refer to declared visitations or communications with the spirit world.

It has been possible to relegate many of these asserted occurrences to imagination or to superstition, but it has not been possible to thus eliminate them all. A special society with distinguished membership has been enrolled in London with the object of inquiring into the truth of many of these assertions of supernormalities. The attempt is being made in a serious and responsible spirit, a spirit of genuine scepticism, of critical examination and inquiry, not of dogmatic denial or of dogmatic assertion.

Have these investigations resulted in proof of communications with surviving intelligences? Some of the investigators believe such proof has been adduced. Others are not so certain. I am of those who expect to see still stronger and more continued proofs, but am of the opinion a good case has been already made out, and at present time it is legitimate to grant that lucid moments of intercourse with deceased persons may supervene.

It is unlikely that, in our present stage of natural knowledge, we are acquainted with all the workings of the human spirit and can reduce them to such commonplace that every thing capable of happening in the mental and physical region is of a nature to be understood by all.

The first fact established has been the reality of telepathy—that is to say, of the direct action of one mind on another mind by means unknown to science. That a thought or image or impression or motion in the mind of one person can rouse a similar impression in the mind of another person sufficiently sympathetic and sufficiently at leisure to attend and record the impression is now proved. But the mechanism whereby it is done is unknown.

There are those who are beginning to be impressed with the idea that the time has come, or is near, when it may be legitimate to admit, at least as a tentative hypothesis, the phenomena of automatic writing, or writing executed independent of the knowledge and consciousness of the operator. I refer to telepathic influence from the surviving intelligence of some of those who have recently lived on this planet and who are now represented as laboring under great difficulties and discouragements to make known the fact that they can communicate with us by such intervening mechanism as is placed at their disposal—namely, the brain, nerves and muscles of an automatist or medium. The assertion is made that, during the temporary suspension of the normal control of the medium, these spirits can make use of the organs of the medium for the purpose of transmitting their own thoughts and producing writing or speech in this physical world. It does not necessarily follow that the active intelligence is always that of a departed person, but that is the form which the phenomenon takes.

It is orthodox—not scientifically orthodox, but regiously orthodox—to maintain that the connection between ourselves and our organism is only temporary, and that as what we call "death" we shall give up this material mode of manifestation so that the body resolves itself into its original elements. It is usually supposed in our new state we have no means of operating on the physical world. No, we cannot, unless one of three things happens:

First, the telepathic power may continue and we may operate directly on the minds of our friends on earth in such a way as to cause them to produce some physical effect or record through their accustomed mechanism.

Second, a materializing power may continue there analogous to that which has enabled us here on the planet to assimilate all sorts of material, to digest it and arrange it into the organism that serves us as a body.

Third, and more likely, telergic power, analogous to that which we have already supposed occasionally active, may exist, enabling the physical unit to detect and make use of some fully developed brain with muscles and nerves, so that these may be utilized for a time. This is telepathy. There is a vast amount of evidence for supernormal phenomena, but it has not made good its claim to positive acceptance in a way that telepathy has.

Band Concert

To be Given on Public Square, Bedford, Wednesday evening, June 11.

The music lovers of Bedford and vicinity will be delighted to hear that the Tressler Orphans' Home Band of Loysville, Pa., will give another concert on the Public Square, Bedford, on Wednesday evening, June 11. This is the famous boy band which rendered such excellent music here last August. All who heard them at that time will want to hear them again.

The band consists of about forty boys and they have as their leader Prof. C. M. Stauffer, whose reputation as an organizer is no less great than his fame as a choir director and band master. He has been at the Home for a number of years, previous to which time he had been director of the Carlisle Indian Band. The boys under his leadership have gained a wide reputation and the services of the band are in great demand.

The Tressler Orphans' Home is a Lutheran institution and surely every Lutheran in this community will want to hear the Home Band. Make your plans now to come to Bedford on the evening of June 11. Be sure to tell your friends and neighbors what a treat is in store for them if they will turn out at that time.

The band is making a trip to the western part of the State and are traveling over the Lincoln Highway by trucks.

New Pest Coming Likely

An extremely dangerous and destructive pest attacking corn, our greatest agricultural crop, and many other kinds of plants, has been introduced from Europe, and is now known to be established over areas of about 400 square miles in the vicinity of Boston Mass., and in a similar area near Schenectady, N. Y. No infestation is known in Pennsylvania at this time, but a constant watch for this pest must be maintained.

Besides damaging corn, this pest feeds in the stems of many other useful and ornamental plants, including potatoes, tomatoes, beets, turnips, celery, Swiss chard, beans, spinach, oats, timothy, dahlias, chrysanthemums, geraniums, and gladioli. Also several well known weeds furnish food and shelter for it, such as burdock, ragweed, pigweed, purslane, lamb's quarters, barnyard and fox-tail, grasses, goldenrod, thistle, jimson-weed, horseroad and especially cocklebur.

Life History

This pest winters over as a smooth caterpillar in corn stalks and large plants, including weeds. About the middle of May the caterpillar changes to a pupa, soon to emerge as a moth, which lays many eggs, sometimes as many as 700. The caterpillars hatching from these eggs feed on early corn and other plants, and complete their growth and pupate. Early in August another generation of moths appear. These lay their eggs (this time about 900 each) on corn and other plants (especially on corn) and do a vast amount of damage to the stalks and ears. Over 300 caterpillars have been found in a single hill of corn. The progeny of one Spring moth developed from a single caterpillar in the spring may very often exceed 300,000 borers in September. Complete and thorough destruction of infested plants in the winter or spring is exceedingly important.

Methods of Control

As this insect passes the winter as a caterpillar in corn stalks and various plants and weeds, very effective control measures are possible. Pull up and burn all cornstalks and other large plants, weeds and grasses in any infested area. Report and send any suspicious material in a light tin or wooden box to Prof. J. G. Sanders, Director of Plant Industry, State Capitol, Harrisburg, Pa.

Rural Mail Carriers Meet

The Rural Letter Carriers of Bedford County, held a meeting at Everett, Friday May 30th for the purpose of forming an organization which now consists of sixteen members. The following officers were elected: President, G. H. Billing, Vice President, N. W. Coughenour, Secretary, Amos B. Miller, Assistant Secretary, Mr. Corboy, Treasurer, L. Chester England.

The next meeting will be held at Bedford June 11th beginning at 8:00 P. M. All the Rural Carriers are requested to be present.

Senator Knox says the new covenant of the League of Nations is worse than the old one. And his newest reasons for continuing his opposition are worse than his old ones.

Millions Placed At Work

Figures on the number of unemployed placed in jobs by the United States Employment Service during its sixteen months of activities show that jobs were secured for 4,557,279 men and women. The number referred to "opportunities" was 5,975,890. The number of actual placements is determined by a return card system.

Nearly Fatal Accident

Yesterday while attempting to repair an electric light wire in front of Attorney F. E. Colvin's residence, on Juliana street, Willard Burket an employee came in contact with a live wire which sent 2200 volts through him. In attempting to release himself, Mr. Burket fell among the wires and hung several minutes with his head down, the current still passing through his body. Mr. Wagner, Mr. Croil and Mr. John Brice released him and Mr. Burket came down the pole without any assistance though a little nervous from the tremendous shock he must have received. His left shoulder was severely burned and a place on his back. The belt which he wore caught when he started to fall which saved him from being crushed to death by falling from 25 to 30 feet to the ground. It was a narrow escape both ways but Mr. Burket is the happy possessor of such good luck of which he feels thankful.

Good Use For Explosives

The Department of Agriculture has taken over from the War Department $10,000,000 worth of ammonium nitrate which will be converted into dynamite to be used in clearing land for agricultural purposes and in road building.

Farm Labor Shortage

Reports to the United States Employment Service show a constantly increasing demand for farm labor. States in the Northwest, Middlewest, South and Southwest and on the Pacific Coast report an increasing shortage of farm labor as the season advances.

One of the Interesting Exhibits Shown at the Methodist Centenary Celebration

To prove that his soul is above worldly troubles and physical pain, this Hindu fakir nonchalantly reclines on a bed of spikes, much to the amazement of less spiritual observers. The bed of spikes will be one of the interesting exhibits shown at the Methodist Centenary Celebration, in Columbus, O., June 20 to July 13. Whether a fakir, Hindu or otherwise, can be found to demonstrate his power of endurance on it is still an unsettled question with celebration officials.

To Play Great Organ at the Methodist Centenary

MRS. MONTGOMERY LYNCH of Seattle will play the great $50,000 organ in the presentation of "The Wayfarer," the magnificent pageant of the Methodist Centenary Celebration, in Columbus, O., June 20 to July 13. Montgomery Lynch, her husband, will direct the chorus of 1,000 voices, which is a part of the pageant.

REDUCED FARE ADDS INTEREST

Visitors to Methodist Centenary to Be Well Cared For.

REGISTRATIONS ON INCREASE

Housing Committee of the Celebration Have More Than Forty Thousand Rooms in Private Homes at Their Disposal, Where Those Who Attend Can Be Lodged as Conveniently as at a Hotel.

Announcement by the government that a special low rate of one and a third fares for the round trip has been authorized for the celebration, Columbus, O., June 20 to July 13, has tremendously increased the interest in that event and advanced manifold the inquiries and registrations coming from all parts of the United States. At headquarters the other day a single mail brought cash registrations from 14 separate states and South America.

The low rate has increased work for the special committees, which are responsible for housing the large influx of visitors now seen to be certain. Accommodations fall into three classes:

First, the hotels, which have an average daily capacity of 5,000 visitors.

The second field of accommodation will be in public buildings, which have been specially fitted up for this sort of service for the celebration. These include the State School for the Blind, the State School for the Deaf, the large barracks which were provided at Ohio State university for the student army training corps, and other buildings of a similar nature held in reserve should the number exceed even present expectations.

The third line of assistance for the hospitality of Columbus is in the homes of the residents themselves. More than 40,000 rooms have been offered with the housing committee, and there are said to be many more. Telephone number and best means of access. Visitors to the celebration can be helped as conveniently as a clerk at a hotel assigns a visitor to his room. In order that there might be no misunderstanding, the committee in charge has a uniform rate for accommodations in private dwellings. The charge will be $1 per day for a single person in a room and $1.50 per day for two persons in a room.

Always generously provided with restaurants, Columbus at the present time is having its number largely reinforced by reason of many places being turned into restaurants which were occupied as cafes before May 24, when the state became dry. In addition to these, extraordinary facilities for feeding large numbers quickly are being installed in the exposition grounds.

MONSTER SCREEN AT METHODIST CENTENARY

Special Lantern Devised For Throwing Pictures.

Finishing details are being placed on the arrangements for the erection of the largest screen for the projection of pictures ever built in the world. This is to be one of the features of the Methodist Centenary Celebration, to be held in Columbus, June 20 to July 13.

This monster screen will have a surface for pictures 115x115 feet. The actual structure will be several feet larger in each direction. A special lantern has been successfully devised for throwing these tremendous pictures the necessary distance. The screen will be 250 feet from the nearest spectator and will be built to withstand 40 pounds pressure to the square foot. The lantern which will project these pictures has already successfully thrown pictures on a screen in New York City across a distance of four and a half city blocks. According to Architect Harry C. Holbrook, the screen will be, in effect, three sides of a house. It is necessary to give it the foundations equivalent to a four-story building.

In order that there may be as much salvage as possible after the screen has served its purpose, the picture face will be of fitted lumber, which later will be treated with a white surface preparation.

The estimated cost of this screen will be $5,000. The screen and the lantern will be used in showing the tens of thousands of views, made all over the world by the Methodist Missionary Survey, which has the finest collection of pictorial reviews anywhere in the world.

Even The Sunday Schools Suffers

When the boys grew out of their kilts and rompers, it was a proud father who took them to the home merchant, equipped them with well-fitting serviceable little suits and sent them proudly and happily off to Sunday school. Then came the mail order house's tempting bait in offers on boys' clothing and the father, forgetting the painstaking efforts and pride of the home clothier to outfit the boys and of the service his clothing had rendered fell victim to the alluring beauty of the pictures in the catalogue and sent his money to Chicago. The order was filled—filled with regret to the father. The clothing was out of all proportion in size, the family purse had been drained and it was inevitable that the boys would have to wait until time rolled by and they grew into the new possessions. Their Sunday school teacher missed them from their accustomed places and learned with regret of the folly of a father and the misfortune that had befallen the boys.

MORAL:—The folly of the father is often visited upon unfortunate youth.

Yes! He bought that away from here and what has he gained by it ne thought it a bargain but they double up on him.

FARM STOCK

CATTLE SCAB IS CONTAGIOUS

Disease of Skin Which Affects All Animals Can Be Eradicated by Dipping and Spraying.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Small insectlike parasites, commonly known as mites, are responsible for cattle scab, a contagious skin disease affecting cattle of all ages and conditions. There are several forms of the disease, known by such names as "scab," "mange" and "itch." Though the disease itself may not cause death directly, it is responsible for serious losses by causing a shrinkage in the weight of animals, failure of young stock to thrive and gain weight normally and by increasing the death rate of poorly nourished animals of poor vitality, especially range cattle exposed to inclement weather. Cattle scab can be eradicated by dipping or spraying, dipping being the most reliable method, and lime-sulphur, nicotine and crude petroleum dips can all be used with success.

In the western part of the United States, especially where cattle graze on the open range, the losses caused by common scab have been a serious drawback to the live stock industry. It has been greatly reduced and brought under control, but has not been entirely eradicated from the herds of the Western states, and it is important that control measures be practiced continually to completely eradicate the disease and prevent it from again becoming prevalent.

The mite which causes common cattle scab may attack any part of the body covered thickly with hair, but the first lesions usually occur on the withers, on top of the neck just in front of the withers, or around the root of the tail. From these points it spreads over the back and sides, and unless checked it may involve practically the entire body. The mites attack the skin to obtain food, and in so doing probably introduce a poisonous secretion. A slight inflammation is caused, followed by intense itching. In the advanced stages of the disease large scabs are formed which frequently are stained with blood. The disease should never be allowed to reach this stage, however. In the early stages it yields readily to proper treatment, and heavy losses can be avoided only if the disease is taken in hand early.

While cattle scab can be cured by spraying if the work is done properly, this method is recommended only when the number of cattle to be treated is not large enough to justify the owner in providing a dipping vat. Dipping, however, which consists of immersing animals in a medicated liquid that will kill the parasites, is the only method recognized by the bureau of animal industry in the official treatment of scabby cattle. All animals in the herd should be treated, regardless of the number showing lesions of scab. One dipping generally is sufficient for cattle which have not been exposed to infection but upon which the disease has not yet become apparent. Infected cattle require two or more dippings, according to the variety of the disease present.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

It pays to care well for any animal we keep.

Succulent feed is important any season of the year.

From an economical point of view, it is best not to crowd the horses when first beginning the spring work.

When the sow is about to farrow she should be confined in a rather small area, with a clean, dry bed in a well-sheltered spot away from drafts.

More Mileage Adjustment on Goodrich Tires

Fabrics - 6,000 Miles
Cords--8,000 Miles

TO automobile owners and drivers—to Goodrich Dealers—the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company herewith declares a more-mileage adjustment on Goodrich Tires—6,000 miles for SAFETY TREADS, and 8,000 miles for SILVERTOWN CORDS.

Fix these new Goodrich Adjustment figures firmly in your mind—6,000 miles for SAFETY TREADS—8,000 miles for SILVERTOWN CORDS—instead of the 3,500 and 5,000 miles respectively heretofore in force.

This new adjustment stands back of all Goodrich Tires, including Tires already purchased in the hands of user or dealer.

Goodrich Tires in actual usage are today unfolding such matchless mileage, regularly in excess of adjustment basis, that Goodrich knows it has the strongest, most durable tires the rubber industry has produced.

The Goodrich adjustment mileage is increased because Goodrich knows the mileage in its tires, and it wants to give every motorist a share in their economy.

Go to a Goodrich Dealer, and buy a Goodrich Tire, sure that with fair and square usage a Safety Tread will render you at least 6,000 miles; and a Silvertown Cord at least 8,000.

The President's Message

In his latest message to Congress President Wilson has proposed a program that, if enacted into law in the spirit in which he and the country desire to be realized, will extend and perpetuate the best accomplishments of his administration and superadd to them equally important and necessary reforms. In legislating the Republican majority has a fine opportunity to make good the assertion of their leaders last fall that they would support the President more loyally than their Democratic opponents would.

The President recommends legislation and suggests procedure as to eight major problems—social, economic, fiscal, commercial and industrial. First in the order of presentation—and doubtless first in his own mind—is his request for progressive treatment by statute of the relations between capital and labor. He pleads for a "new organization", "a genuine democratization of industry." He recommends the development of new Federal agencies to afford advice and information and assistance to private enterprise in harmonizing employer and employee. He shows that Congress can exercise authority within its jurisdiction, to bring about these new conditions just as it established an eight-hour day, adopted laws to safeguard life and health in dangerous industries and attempted to prevent the exploitation of juvenile workers. He advocates the continuance of the Federal employment service and the authorization of Secretary Lane's plans for settling soldiers and sailors and their dependents on public lands.

At a time when, more than ever before, taxation is an affair of every citizen. President Wilson's appeal for a reduction of many and abolition of some present taxes will be taken as evidence of his purpose to lessen the burden put upon the people by the war as much and as rapidly as may be. With his recommendation he couples specifications. The income tax, the excess profits tax and the estate tax are to be the principal sources of governmental revenue, but he expresses the hope and belief that these can be revised and reduced. He favors the retention of excess profits taxes and inheritance taxes as permanent forms of direct levy. Taxation of various manufactures and upon sales at retail he suggests, ought to be abolished. Additional means of income should be sought, he says, to take the place of taxes and excises now collected from the makers and vendors of liquor.

The message points out the need of changes in the present tariff, principally to afford protection for industries crippled by the war and those new enterprises which, like the making of dyes and chemicals, were established as a consequence of the war. The scientific investigations and recommendations of the Tariff Commission are offered by the President as the best guide to legislation on the tariff.

"I, for one, covet for our country the distinction of being among the first to act in a great reform," says the President on the subject of woman's suffrage, which he urges Congress to grant. Democrats in the Senate and House are certain to meet the President's expectations in regard to suffrage.

The President makes it clear that although the railroads, telephones and telegraphs are to be returned to their owners, the old policy of laissez faire belongs to the past. It is evidently the President's intent that the reversion of these utilities shall be accompanied with law insuring the public of better service, more nearly uniform rates and a greater measure of control than in the past. The President's own pregnant language on this point is that "some legislation should be considered which may tend to make of these indispensable instrumentalities of our modern life a uniform and co-ordinated system which will afford those who use them as complete and certain means of communication with all parts of the country as has so long been afforded by the postal system of the Government, and at rates as uniform and intelligible."

With the passing of the emergency which was urged to justify a ban upon the manufacture and sale of wine and beers—the country's participation in the war and the need of foodstuffs and labor and materials to guarantee victory—there is now, in the President's view, no need of such restrictions. Accordingly, he has recommended their removal.

Within slightly more than 4,000 words President Wilson has expressed his views and wishes and recommendations as to some of the biggest problems of our internal government. Congress knows his mind and its members ought to understand the public needs and demands. It is now to be seen whether the Republican majority is ready or equal to matching the constructive efforts and performances of the Democrats during the last eight years.

Any one knowing the whereabouts or location of Philip Griffith or Philip Casselman, a veteran of the civil war. Please write the information to his sister Mrs. Samuel Jones, 287 Cooper, Ave, Johnstown, Pa. June 6, 2ti*

Joe Barkman wants less prohibition and more Democracy when prohibition is Democracy. The prohibition movement was strated in Democratic States passed by nearly all Democratic State legislatures long before and Republican State legislatures took it up. The na Democratic Congress passed the Constitutional Prohibition Amendment and a Democratic adopted it long before Republican states did, poor old Republican Pennsylvania coming in in the forties for adoption. Joe needs to get his premises right before he makes speeches. Prohibition is a Democratic issue the same as the Federal Reserve Act, Child Labor Law, etc., etc., etc.

Secretary Baker's statement committing himself unqualifiedly to the plan of again upbuilding the National Guard with Federal aid should put an end to the insinuations that the War Department looks upon the Guard as a step child. The Secretary's statement pledges in advance the support of the War Department to the rebuilding of organizations that so well fulfilled the best traditions of the American volunteer.

Republican reactionaries in the United States Senate taught the "Progressives" how to back up when the latter attempted to exclude Senator Penrose from an important chairmanship.

"We won't sign," said the Huns. "We won't ratify," say the senatorial "robins". Both are speaking of the treaty of peace. The Teutons were talking for the people of Germany. To what Germans are the Republican Senators appealing

Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island was the last Republican chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. The job now goes to Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania, thus proving the progressiveness of the Republican machine when it gets into control.

It is reported that some one has offered to pay $10,000 for the original of the "round robin" signed by thirty nine Senators who opposed the League of Nations. Is the intention to preserve or to suppress this curious pronouncement

Senator Penrose and Representative Gillett have declared for a budget system of government finance. Indicating that the staunchest standpat gets an ear to the ground once in a while. But that doesn't make them progressives any more than one stripe makes a zebra.

There is to be an attempt by the Republican majority in the present extra session of Congress to withdraw from farm loan bonds their exemption from taxation. It is an announced also that there will be an effort to enact a high tariff. The Republicans can't be just to the farmer and generous to the special interests at one and the same time.

DIFFERENCES SEEN IN HENS

Individuals of Same Breed Are Not Always Equal in Respect to Meat or Egg Production.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Among general-purpose fowls all are not equal in respect to either meat or egg production. The difference is not due to size, or to the shape of birds in like condition, but lies in those things which keep one fowl in good laying condition when another goes out of condition, that enable one to lay continuously through a long period and still keep in good condition, while another loses flesh, becomes poor and thin, and incapable of further egg production—until she has had a rest—after a comparatively short period of laying.

The existence of all these, however, is not enough to insure good laying. There must, of course, be reasonably good management, even if the keeper has not special skill. But if with these qualities which make for continual laying, there exists a tendency to put on fat whenever laying is interrupted, only unremitting skillful management will make her a first-class egg producer.

The egg type or laying type of hen, in any breed, is the hen that with the qualities that make for good egg production, has no quality which is an obstacle to continual laying. The meat type is not the converse of the egg type, even though the hen that is not a good layer is fit only for meat.

The meat type, in all kinds of poultry, is the type that grows rapidly and at maturity carries abundant flesh, especially where the preferred parts of the meat are produced. The most desirable meat type is rather fine in bone, with the frame well knit but not too compact. Under any kind of good management a hen of this type that is in normal condition will be a good layer. She may not lay any better than a hen not quite as well fleshed, but she ought to lay just as well, and when the time comes to make meat of her she makes more and better meat, and as a breeder she naturally tends to reproduce offspring that will make more and better meat.

Such hens are in reality of the dual purpose type, no matter what their size or breed. They are equally valuable for eggs and meat. That is the kind of stock that will contribute most to the big increase in poultry that is wanted. It is the dual-purpose type of every breed—a type that exists in every breed, and can easily be made the prevalent type without detriment to any breed, and to the benefit of every breed—that has suffered from neglect.

POULTRY RAISING ON FARMS

Little Capital Is Required and Nothing Equals It as Profitable Side Line.

Poultry raising requires very little capital, but there are very few side-lines, if indeed there are any, that are equal to it for profitable production. Much is said of the time it requires for raising young fowls. But do not forget that when they are managed properly the fowls pay liberally for the time required to raise them. Farming is greatly handicapped for lack of cash and when any side-line can be found that requires little money but considerable labor it is attractive. Such is poultry raising on the farm.

FOWLS FOR BREEDING STOCK

Young Hens With Blunt Toenails Are Not Loafers—Same Applies to Male Birds.

Be sure to look at the toenails of the year-old and two-year-old hens being selected to hold over for next season's breeding stock. The hen that has worn her nails blunt and short has not been a loafer, and if the other well-known signs are in her favor, she is worth a place in the breeding pen. The blunt, short toenails are a good indication on the cock birds as well.

Be Kind Always.

One great trouble with unkind thoughts is that it is so very difficult to keep them only thoughts; sooner or later they find utterance. We may fancy that we are keeping our uncharitable opinions to ourselves, but they are almost certain to express themselves in look or tone, if not in word. The only way to be really kind is to be kind clear through.—Exchange.

Original "Gag Rule."

"Gag rule" was a phrase applied to a resolution passed by congress in May, 1896, that three-fourths of all petitions, memorials, resolutions, propositions or papers relating in any way to the subject of slavery or the abolition of slavery should lie on the table without being printed or referred. The rule was abolished a few years later.

The Mission of Swift & Company

Swift & Company has become one of the large businesses of the world through continuing to meet the growing needs of a nation and a world.

Society has a right to ask how the increasing responsibilities and opportunities for usefulness which go with such growth are being used by the men who direct its affairs—and the men have the right to answer:

To promote the production of live stock and perishables and increase the food supply;

To reach more people with more and better meat;

To make a fair competitive profit, in order to reimburse the 25,000 shareholders for the use of their capital, and to provide for the future development of the business;

To reduce to a minimum the costs of preparing and distributing meat and to divide the benefits of efficiency with producer and consumer;

To live and let live, winning greater business only through greater usefulness, with injury to nothing but incompetency, inefficiency and waste; to deal justly, fairly, and frankly with all mankind.

These are the purposes and motives of the men who direct the policies and practices of Swift & Company.

PROTECTION OF FEEDER HOGS

Department of Agriculture Conducts System of Vaccination Against Hog Cholera.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In an effort to protect the swine industry of the country against the possibility of introducing sick hogs into well herds, and at the same time to permit the shipment from stock yards of stocker and feeder hogs, the United States department of agriculture conducts a system of vaccination against cholera as a part of its inspection service at the various stock yard centers. More than 324,000 hogs were immunized for shipment as stockers and feeders from stock yards of 18 cities during the six months from July to December, 1918, inclusive. To accomplish this without spreading disease, in the face of all the attendant dangers, required, of course, such close care that the wisdom of some phases of the inspection system may not have been always apparent to all concerned.

With swine moving by railroads and teamloads from producing areas into public stock yards of the country, says the statement, the pens of such yards are inevitably infected with the common swine diseases, of which cholera is the most important. Owing to this condition federal regulations formerly required the slaughter of swine received, but after the serum and virus treatment against hog cholera was standardized the possibility of reshipping immature hogs for further feeding resulted in a modification of the rules. Under the plan now in force swine properly vaccinated and disinfectant may be reshipped for any purpose, including breeding.

Immunizing hogs against cholera is a veterinary procedure, including the preventive-serum treatment, taking of temperatures and observing the condition of the animal during the test period. Necessarily the official regulations are of technical character, and it has come to the attention of the department of agriculture that in some cases the rules have been misinterpreted so as to make them appear responsible for fluctuation in the stock-hog market.

For the information of the public, the bureau of animal industry outlines briefly the method of inspection:

All public stock yards are considered to be infected and swine are, therefore, exposed to the contagion from the time of their entry into the yards; consequently it is important that they be immunized promptly after arrival at such yards, to protect them against contracting the disease.

For that reason the department opposes the immunization of swine that have been so exposed for more than five days. Hogs, though they may not show physical symptoms of cholera, may in some instances be affected with the disease to such an extent that immunization will not protect them.

It is not permissible to immunize swine for immediate shipment interstate if they show symptoms of contagious or infectious disease.

If a considerable percentage of the animals in a lot is found to have high temperatures, the possible presence of such disease is indicated and the animals are not immunized or permitted to be shipped interstate. It is possible to have hogs with high temperatures as a result of conditions surrounding the shipment to market, in which case they will return to normal within a short time.

It's Surprising

That so Many Bedford People Fail To Recognize Kidney Weakness.

Are you a bad back victim? Suffer twinges; headaches, dizzy spells?

Go to bed tired—get up tired? It's surprising how few suspect the kidneys.

It's surprising how few know what to do.

Kidney trouble needs kidney treatment.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only.

Have convinced Bedford people of their merit.

Here's a Bedford case: Bedford testimony.

Kidney sufferers hereabouts should read it.

Mrs. William Fletcher, Spring St. says: "Last fall I was troubled with a bad feeling in the back of my head. Finally there was an awful pain in my back and I decided that my kidneys needed attention. I had seen Doan's Kidney Pills recommended in the paper so I purchased a box and started their use. After I had taken just one half of the box I was cured and I have had no trouble since."

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Fletcher had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs. Buffalo N. Y.

Vernon of Snakes

Professor H. Strauss, M. D., of the Royal Charity Hospital, says, "The cause for an attack of gout, rheumatism, lumbago, is supplied by the increase of uric acid in the blood serum, the result of various causes, the most frequent of which is renal. Before an attack, one suffers sometimes from headache, neuralgia, twinges of pain here and there."

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead, when the back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; when you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach; or you have rheumatic pains or lumbago, gout, sciatica when the weather is bad, do not neglect the warning, but try simple means. Take six or eight glasses of water during the day, then obtain at your nearest drug store 'An-uric' (anti-uric acid).

This is the discovery of Dr. Pierce of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. "An-uric" is an antidote for this uric acid poisoning and dissolves uric acid in the body much as hot coffee dissolves sugar. "Anuric" will penetrate into the joints and muscles, and dissolve the poisonous accumulations. It will stamp out toxins. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package.

DANGEROUS DISEASE

No organs of the human body are so important to health and long life as the kidneys. When they slow up and commence to lag in their duties, look out! Find out what the trouble is—without delay. Whenever you feel nervous, weak, dizzy, suffer from sleeplessness, or have pains in the back—wake up at once. Your kidneys need help. These are signs to warn you that your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. They are only half doing their work and are allowing impurities to accumulate and be converted into uric acid and other poisons, which are causing you distress and will destroy you unless they are driven from your system.

MOST ECONOMICAL OF FEEDS

Better Use of Cheap Roughage or Farm By-Products Should Be Practice of Stockmen.

(From the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Stockmen should make better use of cheap roughage or farm by-products, such as cornstalks or straw in wintering beef cows, is the opinion of specialists of the United States department of agriculture after making a survey of nearly 500 stock farms in the corn belt. The records which they obtained show that there is no fixed rule that should govern the quality or the kind of feeds used except that the ration should be adequate and economical.

Whether the coarse feeds of the ration shall be composed mostly of hay, fodder, silage, or grain, will depend ordinarily on local and seasonal conditions.

In years when there is a serious shortage of corn, farmers will find it necessary greatly to reduce the quantity of the corn that ordinarily is fed as grain or fodder or silage. That this can be done under many circumstances is evident from a study of the records. They show that a ration which does not contain corn fodder either as grain or in fodder or silage can be fed without any detriment whatever to the cows or their offspring. There were 149 of the farms studied feeding such rations, the majority of them in Kansas and Nebraska, and they produced as good calves as the farms feeding corn. The winter feed bill on these farms was $13.10 per cow, as against an average of $16.60 for those using grain, fodder, or silage, showing a saving of $3.50 per head due to elimination of corn.

The use of such a grainless ration, which on these farms consisted solely of hay and cheap roughage, is, of course, not always possible or practicable. If this type of ration is to be economical, there must be an abundance of cheap hay to combine with the rough feeds; or, if the bulk of the ration consists of cheap roughage, which, unless there is some winter pasture, is largely composed of carbohydrates, there should be a sufficient amount of leguminous hay, such as alfalfa or clover, to supply the protein needs of the animal. In localities where there is a shortage of hay but where large quantities of cheap roughage, such as corn stover, straw, or damaged hay, is available, this cheap roughage often can be made to serve as the greater part of the ration by supplementing it with a small amount of some concentrated high in protein, such as cottonseed meal. The farmers in that portion of the corn belt lying west of the Missouri river, where alfalfa is grown abundantly, nearly always can plan an adequate ration without corn. The fact that the 149 farms using the cheaper ration were not feeding

Good Pasture Is an Economical Home-Grown Feed.
Corn does not imply that it should never be used, for there are farms where it is necessary to feed a moderate amount of grain. This is particularly true of gentlemen who are conducting a purebred business and who advertise their stock by exhibiting at the various live stock shows. The results of this study simply indicate that care should be taken that no unnecessary quantities of corn are fed.

There are 154 farms (not quite one-third of those studied) on which corn was fed to the breeding herd for at least part of the winter. The average winter feed bill for these farms was $17.10 per head, as against $14.80 for the cows receiving no grain. There were 78 of these farms where less than 10 per cent of the ration was composed of grain and where the cows received an average of 2 bushels of corn and 15 pounds of cottonseed meal per head during the winter. As 42 per cent of this winter ration consisted of cheap roughage and as the amount of feed used was not excessive, the cows were earned through the winter at an average cost of $14.00, or 9 cents a day. In the herds where grain constituted more than 10 per cent of the ration, the cows received an average of from 6 to 18 bushels of corn, much of which was unnecessary. The average cost of feed for wintering these cows ranged from $17.50 to more than $20 a head.

Probably one of the largest wastes of corn occurs in the feeding of unhusked corn fodder, which is extensively fed in sections where corn is the leading crop and where hay is scarce.

Sales Yield Almost 90 Per Cent Of Cost

Surplus war supplies sold by the War Department up to May 9 amounted to $236,162,143.07, and represented 88 per cent of the original cost. Recent sales overseas amounted to $50,000,000 included 22,000,000 pounds of bacon, which brought $8,000,000.

All horses and mules with the army in France will be sold by July 1 leaving only the 60,000 animals with the Third Army in the occupied territory.

Nearly Forty Billions of Insurance Written

Popularity of War Risk Insurance continues, although the war dangers have passed. Applications for insurance from men joining the Regular Army and Navy are being received at the rate of several hundred a day.

During April, the War Risk Bureau received 10,295 applications for insurance. To date, the bureau has insured 4,522,724 men in the military service for a total of $39,561,994,500. The average policy is $8,747.

Camp Roosevelt For Boys

Boys from Bedford will be invited to a Reserve Officers' Training Camp on Lake Michigan this summer. The camp has been named Camp Roosevelt, as a living memorial to the dead statesman, and 15,000 men and boys will be given a period of intensive military physical educational training there between July 6 and August 31. Captain P. L. Beals of the United States Army will be the commanding officer.

Camp Roosevelt is being established at Muskegon, Michigan, as a training place for the Chicago High School boys who are in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, but it is not necessary to be from Chicago or to have had previous military training to be a Camp Roosevelter. It will be an all-age, all-American camp, open to recruits between the ages of 12 and 45.

The military training will include drills, machine gun practice, ground aviation radio instruction and other military features. The physical training will include calisthenics, baseball, tennis, golf, swimming, rowing, and hiking. The educational training will be under the direction of Chicago High School instructors and will cover all high school subjects.

This feature is optional with the recruit.

Camp Roosevelt is not a profit making institution. It is being financed by a committee of patriotic Chicago citizens who believe that it may pave the way to a program of national preparedness at all times. The charge, as far as the recruit is concerned, is only $1.00 per day to cover subsistence and equipment, and an enrollment fee of $1.00. This will pay for all expenses at the camp, including board, necessary equipment, instruction and tent to sleep in. Recruits can arrange for two, four, six or eight weeks of training as desired.

Camp Roosevelt will be under strict military discipline and the commanding officer will have complete charge of all added features of training.

So many inquiries are coming in regarding the camp that it has become necessary to establish executive headquarters at 21 N. La Salle Street Chicago, from which full information may be secured upon request.

Patrick Shaffer wife and two children of Johnstown spent a few days last week among friends in this vicinity. Returning home on Sunday afternoon, they were accompanied by Joseph Cuppett and Miss Leora Miller, near Holsopple while attempting to pass an approaching automobile, Mr. Shaffer's car left the road and turned over twice. Mr. Cuppett was the only one injured who sustained a broken arm near the wrist.

Irvin Oldham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bindley Oldham, who served in France as a soldier boy returned home on Friday and was one of the few who did not receive any injuries. He expressed himself as being glad to get home.

Memorial Day was observed at this place in the forenoon by assembling in the M. E. church where the audience was entertained by vocal music, instrumental music, readings and addresses. Prayer was offered by the Rev. J. Winwood. The principal address was given by the Rev. G. Kerr. The services were presided over by E. V. Wright, a veteran of the Civil War. The New Paris Band headed a parade that marched from the M. E. church to the Evangelical and Reformed cemeteries where the graves of fallen heroes were decorated with flags and flowers. The New Paris Band furnished music for a similar occasion in the afternoon at Pleasantville.

Shame in Willful Loss of Time.
